Judge Davis Badly Injured.

Runaway Does Considerable Damage.
Judge Davis was knocked down on Main street, Wednesday morning, by a runaway horse and rendered insensible, but was soon brought round and his wounds dressed by a physician.

It appears that Mrs. Elbridge Stone and Louise Brown of Waterford, cousin to Margaret and Jennie Baker of this town, started to drive from their home to visit the Misses Baker in Norway. When about opposite the pumping station on Water street the horse, a rather nervous animal, became frightened at the noise of the motor and pumps in the station and fled.

The carriage struck the large elm tree opposite the station and both ladies were thrown head first over the dasher to the ground, landing the dasher double. Fortunately neither was hurt and Mrs. Stone's escape from injury is almost miraculous, as she is well advanced in years.

The whiffle-tree and shafts broke and freed the horse from the carriage where it was stuck on the run down Water street to Bridge thence into Main. When opposite the Elm House he ran directly into Judge H. C. Davis, striking him back of the left shoulder and knocking him to the ground, where he lay unconscious. He was quickly picked up and carried into the hotel parlor and physicians summoned. Restoratives were applied and he recovered consciousness soon after their arrival.

He presented a sad looking sight, his face being covered with blood but this was soon washed away and the injuries dressed. The bridge of his nose was broken and a deep gash cut connecting the nose and mouth. His forehead was also badly bruised but nothing serious. With good care and nursing the judge will soon be back at the bench sending this one up for three months and that one for six, as if nothing had happened.

The horse was caught before running any further and taken to the stable, while the ladies proceeded to the Baker residence on foot.

Co. D's Military Ball, the 18th.
Everything now points to a large attendance at the Military Ball and Ball of Co. D, 1st Regt., N. G. S. M., to be held at the Opera House this (Friday) evening, April 18th, as the sale of both floor and gallery tickets has been very large. No pains or expense have been spared to make this a success and pleasant event.

Let it be said again that Co. C of Auburn will give a rare treat in the way of a drill and also that they have a fine class of men whom it is a pleasure to meet. Proof of this, we might say, is found in our midst in the person of one Eaton, principal of the Paris high school, who is First Lieutenant in the Company.

Refreshments will be served, in the same corps of young ladies, in the same patriotic costumes in which they drilled in 1898, under the direction and management of the Company D Ladies' Aid Society.

Shurtleff's celebrated ice cream will be on sale and punch bowls will be arranged on tables at intervals about the hall, from which punch will be dispensed free to all.

It is expected that a large number of the officers of the regiment will be present besides a number from the Governor's Military Staff. Electric cars will run at convenient intervals until 2 a. m.

Stearns' orchestra of fifteen pieces will give a fine concert and will also render patriotic airs during the drill.

Silas H. Wetherbee.

After an illness of about two weeks, Silas H. Wetherbee passed away, Tuesday morning, April 15th.

Mr. Wetherbee was born in St. Johnsbury, Vt., June 8, 1837, the son of Nathan and Tily (Leach) Wetherbee.

He was educated at Lyndon Academy, Lyndon, Vt. When a young man he came to Norway and was bookkeeper in the store of L. A. Jenison.

Oct. 9, 1860, he married Carrie A. Latham of Norway. Two sons were born to them, Arthur L., who died May 14, 1880, at the age of 27 years, and Frank N., who only lived three and one-half years.

The greater part of his married life was spent in Portland and Norway. He belonged to the Portland Commandery of Knights Templar and Bramhall Lodge, K. of F., of Portland.

He has worked twenty years or more for Charles McLaughlin & Co., wholesale grocers of Portland, as traveling salesman, and was highly esteemed by all who had any dealings with him.

His wife leaves a son, a grand-daughter and one brother, who have the sympathy of a host of friends. He was kind and exceedingly thoughtful in his home, a good man and a most worthy citizen.

The funeral will be held on Friday at 1:30 p. m., at his late home on Crescent street, Rev. C. E. Angell officiating.

N. H. S. Base Ball Team.
The Norway High School Base Ball team has organized for 1902. The team's makeup is practically the same as last year, and when the games come up between the two school teams of the twin villages, Norway and South Paris, things are likely to prove interesting as these are the strongest teams in the county.

An Acquisition to Portland's Mercantile Circles.

The Eastern Argus of Monday, April 14, says:—Thomas Smiley, who has been stocking the store at No. 443 Congress street with a superior line of ladies' furnishings, furnishings, has been elected to the office of the city or town clerk, which office he will hold for the next year.

While Mr. Smiley is a new-comer in Portland trade, he is by no means inexperienced in his particular branch of business.

He has for some time carried on an extensive store in Norway, in which country he not only enjoys the reputation of being a merchant of rare capabilities, but his standing as a citizen is the highest and his popularity unbounded.

It is a matter of keen satisfaction to the people of Norway that Mr. Smiley is to continue in trade there, notwithstanding his entrance into a larger field.

Mr. Smiley possesses attributes which should soon place him on a firm footing in the Portland business world—an assiduous and energetic trader, a dealer possessing the confidence of the purchasing public.

Lester I. Harriman.

Died at his home on Danforth street, Wednesday, of acute articular rheumatism and tuberculosis, aged 22 years, 10 months and 18 days.

Mr. Harriman was born in Lowell, May 20, 1879, the son of Asa and Mary (Grover) Harriman. He attended the common schools of his native town until he was thirteen years of age when the family removed to this village. Here he went to school for a time and went through the first two years of the high school.

When he left school and went to work in the shoe shop, he was after a short time and took a position as salesman in the Smitley Shoe Store, where he worked three years. Leaving here he went to Portland and was salesman for the A. H. Berry Shoe Company of that place and stayed with an aunt until failing health compelled him to give up work. He then returned to Norway and has resided here up to the time of his decease.

November 29th, 1899, he married Lottie Bennett, who, with his mother and sister, Mrs. Gust Bennett and Blanche Harriman, survive him. Mr. and Mrs. Harriman had no children. Two brothers of Mr. Harriman's, Oswald J. and an infant, died a number of years ago.

South Paris.

Doubtful if Mr. Hooper Accepts.
Some time since a call was extended to Rev. W. W. Hooper, the Universalist State Missionary, to become the permanent pastor of the society. Rev. Mr. Hooper has been the prime mover in the formation of the society and is really the result of his efforts.

Mr. Hooper took the matter under consideration and after some deliberation notified the parish committee that, providing a lot was purchased and a church edifice started he would accept the call and become their permanent pastor.

A meeting of the Good Cheer Society, the so-called financial backers of the main organization, was held, Tuesday, and at that time it was decided that, owing to the present financial condition of the society it would be best to postpone the purchase of a lot and building of a church indefinitely.

As a result, it is not expected that Rev. Mr. Hooper can see his way clear to accept the call and here the matter rests at the present time.

Pain in the Back

A Sure Sign of Kidney Trouble. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy will cure you.

Pain in the back is a never failing sign of kidney disease; another sure sign is the condition of the urine; if you have a pain in the back then look to the condition of your urine. Take a glass tumbler and fill it with urine; after it has stood 24 hours, if it has a sediment, if it is milky or cloudy, pale or discolored, stringy orropy, your kidneys and bladder are in a dangerous condition and need immediate attention, or the consequences may prove fatal.

F. C. Wilcox of 559 New Britain ave., Hartford, Conn., says:

"I had a frightful pain in my back, the result of kidney trouble. My physician seemed powerless to relieve me. I determined to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy; it helped me wonderfully, and in a short time cured me completely."

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the one medicine that really cures all diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia and chronic constipation and corrects the bad effects of whiskey and beer on the system.

It is wonderful how it makes that pain in the back disappear, how it relieves the desire to urinate often, especially at night, and drives away that scalding pain in passing water and in a remarkably short time makes you well and strong.

All druggists sell Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles. Sample bottle—enough for trial, free by mail.

What Makes Home Papers Interesting. People read their local paper for the home news. They are interested to see everything about the people and places they once knew if they are away, or if at home they like to read what is happening right around them.

When the local paper comes into the house the first thing is to look for the town where one is best acquainted. It is of interest to know that a life-long friend has now shingled his house or cut up his woodpile, and it is almost with a sigh of relief that nothing is so warm and all is safe that we turn to the other more or less familiar papers.

A man and wife travelling confessed that when they received their mail matter, their local home paper, printed where many years of their lives had been spent, was the first to claim their attention.

This does not mean that the small items should be written to the exclusion of those that could be written up so as to make interesting reading. Because they are near home makes them entitled to better write up, and they are ten times more interesting to us than a like matter in Africa. We notice some, for example, for the reason that "Charming kids has returned from Boston." That is all well and good and perhaps does not need further explanation. Next we read our old friend "George Lambkins has committed suicide." Now we are not satisfied with this message, because we want to know what it is. There are big items of news, little items and medium items, and writers should be careful to get all the facts and present them in the most readable way. What is news? Always remember that everything that will interest some one is news. In writing it the writer should always have a kindly spirit and say what they have to say without a "dig" or a "take."

Says a successful business man writing from his home in a large city, "Can't you print more from my native village. I don't want to crowd any other place out, but I do want to hear what is going on in the world when a boy are doing."

Another writes, "I am more interested to know that— is building a new boat and who is building her, and her name, etc., than to know that J. P. Morgan or F. W. Lawton is having a new steam yacht built, with full descriptions."

Still further, "Writers ought to be encouraged to furnish more personal items. They will not hurt those fortunate enough to know it all (meaning those who want every piece of news to weigh at least ten tons) and one cannot appreciate how the wanderer that has been home only rarely, or not at all, regards the few lines that tell him of the doings of an old schoolmate or playfellow of former years."

An illustration, "I read that— Not much of an item to be sure, yet forty years ago I used to play with him, and have often wondered if he was in the land of the living."

A busy business man: "I open the old home weekly paper before my big city dailies, on the one day of the week I find it on my desk. 'Why do I do it?' I do not know. It is not so large. There is nothing imposing or impressive about it. There are no gaudy pictures or reaching after startling typography, but it is such a rest for me to read it. Why I have

The Bore.

Written for the Advertiser.

If you've nothing to say, keep still. There are too many saying it now. Hold on to your peace with a will. A spectator at the pow-wow. Don't take any part in the row. Nor join in the noise and kerfuffle. That is making the most of us ill. Be still!

Keep silent! Try to learn how. Vague minds driving over-worked tongues. Until they forget how to stop. Contrasting times of the old and new. With their ceaseless, unquenchable "yawp." Until hearers are ready to drop. And yearn to cry out for a cop. And mentally conjure up bunions.

That are used, barrel-holes for to stop. The frogs and the locusts and such. How they harassed fair Egypt full sore. But, compared to our day, 'twasn't much. More's a hint or a touch.

To tongues that can run like the Dutch. On words that do weary and bore. Aye more. That madden and poison and clutch. Go about to get peace with a will. Until you create something new. And need before you infest. Now take a vacation, pray do! For the life-blood is scattered like dew. And one has to hold an inquest. Then rest. On all that remains of you. CORA M. W. GREENLEAF.

What Makes Home Papers Interesting.

People read their local paper for the home news. They are interested to see everything about the people and places they once knew if they are away, or if at home they like to read what is happening right around them.

When the local paper comes into the house the first thing is to look for the town where one is best acquainted. It is of interest to know that a life-long friend has now shingled his house or cut up his woodpile, and it is almost with a sigh of relief that nothing is so warm and all is safe that we turn to the other more or less familiar papers.

A man and wife travelling confessed that when they received their mail matter, their local home paper, printed where many years of their lives had been spent, was the first to claim their attention.

There is nothing imposing or impressive about it. There are no gaudy pictures or reaching after startling typography, but it is such a rest for me to read it. Why I have one of these papers in which my birth was recorded. I was little and unknown outside of the home I had come to, but that paper thought me important enough to introduce to the world. As I grew older, if I was sick, or went away to school, or had any important event happen to me, like a birthday party or a school exhibition, it told of it. When I graduated it said the kindest things of my oration and our class. It almost makes me thrill with pride as I read it now— till I read my old oration put away in the same drawer with the paper. Then I knew how great that paper was. 'Whosoever giveth a cup of cold water unto the least, etc.'

"I went from home and that paper followed me into my city life. Somehow it always found out my great joys and sorrows. It spoke in praise of my business changes and advances. It copied an account of my marriage from our city papers. The birth of my children are there, and when death visited my family that paper told our friends of our sorrow and gave us through them, sympathy. Perhaps the most beautiful thing the paper has done for me is the thoughtfulness that gathered the facts in the lives of my aged parents, when the time had come for them to be borne to their final rest amid old Oxford's hills.

In reading these little sketches it brings before me their humble, happy and unselfish lives, and how much they sacrificed for a better education and a wider life for their children than they had ever known.

"I like to think that when my time shall come to go hence if the paper is still living its useful life, it will throw its last mantle of charity over the life it has seemed to watch over from the beginning."

A man who looks into things and thinks says, "A few years ago some of our larger city papers seeing how much people were interested in the so called local news conceived the idea of huge local daily papers. In most cases this has been abandoned and only the most important events given. This was because a local daily paper is very expensive, and again there would be so much dead timber in it, it would not be desirable. Take the news in one State for example. Few people living in the Eastern portion would be interested in the local events of the people living in the Western. In these days of big papers fifty pages would not be an unheard of novelty, but one would not want to buy a fifty page paper and read through for a single item of local matter, that they knew nothing about and care less to pick out the two pages they wanted to read. One county is about as much territory as a local paper can cover advantageously. Yet what the paper cannot be big enough for more but it would not be interesting to its readers.

"If people want to read 'Butler's Analogy' and enjoy such reading, they surely ought to know enough to know they will not find it in the local paper. But if they want a life picture of the locality in which it is published, painted from life, they will not find truer history than the files of an up-to-date, wide-awake local paper."

PLAYED OUT. That "played out"—"done up" feeling makes life miserable for every sufferer from kidney ills, backaches, headaches and urinary troubles, painful and annoying.

Doan's Kidney Pills bring new life and activity, remove the pain and cure the cause, from common backache to dangerous diabetes.

Mr. L. T. Wilson, sailmaker on Market street, Portland, Me., says: "I contracted a very bad cold which affected me in the loins and in the upper part of the chest, causing distressing lameness, some urinary difficulty and I was quite stiffened up. As I had read considerable about Doan's Kidney Pills I went to Philbrick's pharmacy and got a box. They went to the spot at once, and I did not use but part of the box before I was quite over my trouble. I gave the balance of my box to a friend, and there was plenty to cure him, although neither of us are very lightweights. I am prepared from my personal experience and from their effects on others to highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. You can refer to me."

11th Maine Regiment Reunion.
COMRADES OF THE ELEVENTH MAINE REGIMENT.—An invitation to attend a banquet in celebration of the forty-first anniversary of the fall and the thirty-seventh anniversary of the formal re-occupation of Fort Sumter, reminds me of our beloved Regiment will be held at Brownfield in August.
How rapidly time passes and what have his scythes have made in our ranks, soon all will have passed into history along with those who fought in the Revolution. Already the present generation view us as we did our fathers, and often are unable to distinguish between the two conflicts; already the small boy has asked "whether we fought on the American or British side."
Although thirty reunions of our Regiment have been held, this will be the first in Oxford county. Many brave men of the Eleventh were from West Oxford and the northern towns of York and Cumberland, a majority of whom were members of Company "A," and justice demands that we hold a reunion in their vicinity.
It is no disparagement to those who served in other companies to say that no company, which entered service in the Civil War, was composed of braver men or rendered more gallant service than did Company "A" of the Eleventh Maine. It is unnecessary to recount their valorous deeds, they are recorded in the History of the Regiment, from the day they led our first reconnaissance before Yorktown to the surrender of Lee's Army at Appomattox.
Let each surviving comrade devote the time necessary to answer the "Roll Call" at Brownfield.
Let us have one more hearty cheer for the Old Flag. It may not be as lusty as those we gave in answer to the Rebel Yell, but it will show to the citizens of West Oxford that, to the citizens of our History can be obtained of Comrade Francis Poor, Past Commander of Daniel A. Bean Post, G. A. R. of Brownfield. See to it that a copy is in every library in the State of Maine, that the record of our fallen comrades be not lost in oblivion but handed down to posterity.
Respectfully yours,
ALBERT MAXFIELD.

THE TOUCH DOES IT

Benson's Plasters are like your other friends—they hate to see you in pain or in weakness and are dog-died hearing you complain about it. They want to cure you and send you along to your business—whole and happy. They can do it and will do it. Try them on. What for? Why for any cough or cold you may be troubled with, or any bothering pain or ache, or worry with kidneys or liver. Possibly some old clutch of muscular rheumatism renders an arm or a leg worth only half price just now. For anything that makes the machine work slow and stiff, with pain maybe in the motion of it, clasp Benson's Porous Plasters squared on the back spot. They are the get-out-to-narrow plasters—not the sort that go to sleep on your skin like a cat on a cushion. There is comfort and speedy relief in the touch of them. No other external remedy, no matter how made or how called, is worthy to live in the same street with Benson's Plasters. Pains and ailments melt away under them as a sheet of ice does under the Spring sun. You cannot foretell the weather, but you can always foretell the effect of Benson's Plasters; it is as sure as the effect of a hot breakfast in a hungry man's stomach. But look out for substitutes. Get the genuine. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on a number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Boating and Fishing News.

That the season on Lake Penesseewassee is about to commence was evidenced by the open cottages on Sunday and the workmen repairing them on week-days. The private boats, canoes and launches used on the lake have nearly all been gone over and made their first trip of the season.

The "Penesseewassee," Capt. James Porter, has been thoroughly repaired and repainted, and slipped into the waters of the outlet, Monday. As soon as the boiler and engine have been put in she will be ready for the season's work.

A number of owners of cottages were inspecting their property, the first of week, taking account of the repairs to be made, etc., this being as soon as one fence owing to the ice. The ice was driven out last week Wednesday by the heavy wind and rain.

Several pleasure and fishing craft were out on the lake, the first of the week, but the upper lake was a trifle rough to enjoy oneself and the fishing was practically without results.

The first fish of the season from Penesseewassee, so far as we have been able to learn, was caught by James True, a red-spot weighing 13 oz.

Twenty salmon were taken from Lower Stone Pond, East Stoneham, the first four days after the ice went out. John A. Woodman returned from Camp Medford the first of the week with the salmon, the largest of which weighed four pounds. There are a half dozen or more fishermen at the camp.

William F. Jones returned on Saturday from Camp Medford with two very fair salmon.

James G. Dexter and Allie T. Cook went to the same place the last of the week, returning the first of this week. Mr. Dexter landed a salmon while there weighing 4 1/2 lbs.

E. W. Bartlett the present week caught one weighing 4 lbs. 1 oz.

Col. H. D. Littlefield has several to his credit, some half dozen, we believe.

The returning fishermen from Stoneham all say Mell Sampson's camp is first-class and speak highly of the accommodations there. Ike Farrington is acting as guide this season at the camp. The present visitors are mostly Norway anglers and some forty odd fish have been caught up to date.

F. Waldo Nash and Ralph Trask leave for the former's camp at Hayes' Landing on the Rangeles for the season about the last of April or first of May.

Photographing in Colors.
Professor Addison E. Verrill of Yale, and other members of the faculty of the University are convinced that the long-sought secret of color-photography has been discovered by the professor's son, A. Hyatt Verrill of New Haven. Since the announcement of Mr. Verrill, giving an outline of results so far attained, great interest has been manifested in his work.

Photographers and chemists have called upon him and examined prints from his negatives, which show the natural tints and colors with all of their relative values. All who have seen the work express amazement at the fidelity to nature and the brilliancy of the colorings of the flower and foliage pictures.

Mr. Verrill is a graduate of Yale, and has for some time been experimenting in photography. He has not patented his process, and will not make public the details of its operation. He calls it an autochromatic process, and says that the secret lies, first in the highly sensitized paper that he uses; second, in the emulsion on the paper, which is his own invention; and third, in the sharpness of the lenses, which he has had made on his own specifications. The paper is said to be five times as sensitive to red and yellow as ordinary papers. Mr. Verrill said that he had been advised that patenting the invention would make the formula public, and by making slight modifications other photographers would appropriate his work.

Mr. Verrill refuses to consent to the reproduction of his photographs in color by newspaper processes. The pictures show brilliant coloring, and the colors taken from life have strong contrasts between the gray of rocks and the greens and blues of foliage and sky. One picture of a sea anemone was taken under water; another, of a tropical bird, taken from life, is beautifully tinted. Others show caterpillars eating chestnut leaves, in which the coloring is marked. Fish photographs are shown that are reproductions of water color paintings, and each shows the characteristics of the original. The delicate green, pink, purple and orange are faithfully reproduced.

Professor Verrill regards his son's work as a decided advance over anything that has heretofore been done in color photography. [Profitable Advertising.]

This is of especial interest to Oxford county people. Prof. Verrill was born in Greenwood and as a young man lived in Norway and attended the schools here. He married a Norway girl, Flora L., daughter of the late Elliott Smith, and a sister of Clarence M. Smith, now a resident of our village.

Llewellyn Jordan has moved from Main street to a house in Upper Fiddlyville. He is working for C. B. Cummings & Sons.

W. H. Whitcomb, who has rented part of the John N. Baker house since his was burned in the great fire of 1894, has decided to move his goods to Philadelphia and give up his home here. His daughter Belle is in Philadelphia and the family have lived here only a small portion of the year.

Letter to H. R. Sawyer.
Norway, Me.
Dear Sir: Perhaps you are going to paint your house and don't believe in Devore. We'll make you an offer.

Paint half your house lead and oil; the other half Devore lead and zinc. In three years the lead and oil half will turn water as well as new.

If not, our agent will stand by this: "If you have any fault to find with this paint, either now in the painting or hereafter in the wear, tell your dealer about it."

"We authorize him to do what is right at our expense."

Devore lead and zinc holds color better than lead; turns water twice as long.

Yours truly,
E. W. Devore & Co.
P. S. F. P. Stone sells our paint in your section.

Millinery Opening.

Friday and Saturday were the days for Mrs. V. W. Hills' millinery opening. The opening of the first of the hats everything completed. There were one hundred and eighteen trimmed hats and bonnets besides those for more common wear that are bought ready trimmed.

The wax lady in the window has been replaced by another and the new one has been named Marie for the first one, so familiar to Norway people. She is clothed all in pure white. The hat on her head is made of white tulle. The diamonds of the tulle caught together with pearls (after the fashion that used to be called smoking) tulle ends and large white ribbon bows in the back.

Pearl cabochon. The work in the hats may be estimated when we say that three days to make this one. In the front of the window was a gondola made of flowers, mostly white with two little doll ladies dressed the one in green and the other in white. Lambrequins of rows of white baby ribbon with cones of white dant cones made an effective decoration, and they being a few inches apart did not hinder seeing through from the outside or keeping the light out. The rest of the window was made up of trimmed hats, bonnets and millinery fixings, with the floor of green covered with white tulle. The inside decoration carried out similar ideas. Three stars of green and white with the cone and ribbon streamers. Fotted ferns and foliage plants and white lace curtains at the windows.

Mrs. Hills was assisted in entertaining her guests by Mrs. F. E. Drake, Grace K. Nevers and Grace Jordan.

We were glad to know that black, black and black and white and light color were fashionable this season. These are combined with most every shade and color that could be thought of in the different hats.

The most popular shape is the Continental. These remain the of the hats in the pictures of men in the Revolutionary period. All tulle hats are very stylish. The main shade is very desirable. We have always considered daisies only suitable for children's hats, but this season they will be found on ladies' hats and very pretty they look nestling in with tulle, lace or chiffon. Insertion cut in sections and applied on brim of hats is also one of the novelties of the season.

Chrysanthemum straw is the most popular straw and whole hats are made of same.

There are close knots in the backs with loops coming from the same to form a bow. The Lorraine silks are very pretty and very desirable for a practical hat. The past season flowers have been used mostly in clusters. This season the brims of hats are conspicuous in their wreaths of buds and roses. Straw made in shape of diamonds and combined with chiffon or tulle makes a very stylish hat.

Therim of some of the hats are left open and laced with ribbon. Links made of flowers straw or lace on brim is one of the new ideas of the season and will be found on the majority of hats. June roses, cowslips, chrysanthemums and daisies are the leading flowers of the season.

Pearls are used in profusion. Jet beads are also popular ornaments.

We noticed an entirely black hat of chrysanthemum straw trimmed with black hyacinths and cabochon with chain; also a black tulle trimmed with moire ribbon, chrysanthemums and aigrette. A black and white hat, the straw and tulle braided, two broad velvet bows across the back one above the other, black and white marguerites. Another with black tulle crown and spangled net over white lilacs around the brim. Tuscan straw over turquoise blue, white and black. A tulle hat with white horse hair straw braided brim. June roses made in links to form a chain with little bows on end of loops.

Another black hat had beads strung on tulle and braided with straw around the brim. A rope of tulle was braided with jet, and there was a big bunch of black fancy grass on one side. Another straw was sewed in diamond shapes to form the brim. It was trimmed with chiffon and stems twisted.

A light brown straw hat with small rows of rose satin braid, a large chiffon and muslin rose with foliage crown. A white lace crown and rows of narrow velvet ribbon draped down over the side of the hat and tipped in the back with June roses and foliage. A Neopolitan hat, the braid looked much like a boot lacing with one side fastened and the other up to make it look like rows and rows wound around, violets.

A tickled lined hat was trimmed with embroidered batiste, lace medallions and ribbon in geranium shade. There are some pretty bonnets for the older people. One had rosettes of black outline around the edge, the leaves of a large, light heliotrope rose seen through black lace embroidered with gilt, gilt braid and black grain.

The children have a lot of ready-made hats. The colors are blue, white and red, some of them with a narrow edge black or white on the full plaited rim or trimming. The trimmed children's hats are particularly attractive. One was a blue and white braid, the narrow rows alternating. It was trimmed with white tulle and liberty silks.

The opening was well worth looking at, as the large number of ladies who attended will affirm. Because of the storm the opening was continued Monday.

MRS. HULDA JAKEMAN

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before I knew of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I dreaded the approach of the time for my menstrual period, as it would mean a couple of days in bed with intense pain and suffering. I was under the physicians' care for over a year without any relief, when my attention was called to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by several of our Mormon women who had been cured through its use. I began its systematic use and improved gradually in health, and after the use of six bottles my health was completely restored, and for over two years I have had neither ache or pain. You have a truly wonderful remedy for women. Very sincerely yours, Mrs. HULDA JAKEMAN, Salt Lake City, Utah."

Game Laws for 1902.

Fishing for trout, landlocked salmon and togue permissible to non-residents after the going out of the ice in the spring until October first following, and for white perch at all times except between April first and July first. Special laws govern others. There are, too, some waters in which fly fishing only is permitted. No angler may catch above 25 pounds of fish in one day.

No non-residents may hunt upon wild lands to fish, hunt, trap and build fires thereon during May to November-inclusive, unless registered as a regular guest at a licensed hunting camp, or in charge of a registered guide.

Deer hunting is permitted to residents and non-residents alike, between October first and December 15th, inclusive, the limit being two deer to each hunter.

Moose hunting permitted to both the above classes of hunters between October 15 and November 30 inclusive, during which time it is lawful for a hunter to kill one bull moose—cows and calves (the latter defined as having at least two prongs to their horns) are protected at all times.

Hunting with firearms only is permissible under the law, jacking traps and snares, as well as all other methods of killing deer and moose, including dogs, being forbidden under a heavy penalty.

Transportation of 25 pounds of fish, taken in open season, to any point, when legally killed and accompanied by the owner. When not so accompanied, ten pounds or one fish, the game mentioned and game birds may be expressed without the presence of the owner, upon purchase of necessary tag from express agents at $1 for trout, togue or landlocked salmon, 50 cents for perch, $5 for moose, $2 for deer, and 50 cents for a pair of game birds. No resident of the State shall give away any game or game birds for transportation beyond the limits of the State, and any person buying such for said transportation shall be subject to the same penalty. All game and fish being transported and accompanied by the owner, must be plainly tagged and open to examination and view.

The above is an outline of the general law affecting fishing and hunting in Maine, so far as it affects those who come to this State for recreation. The Commissioners of Inland Fisheries and Game have the power to close waters and limit fishing privileges in special cases. But the above are all that an out-of-the-State sportsman needs in order to come into the State to hunt, and if he follows the law as herein laid down, he will have no occasion to fear the majesty of the law.

Caribou, beaver, and all wild birds except crows, hawks, owls and English sparrows, are protected at all times, and persons are forbidden to shoot them.

Game bird seasons: Wood, duck, black and gray duck and teal may be shot in April, September, October and November; partridge (ruffed grouse) and woodcock, September 15th to November 30th, inclusive; plover, snipe and sandpiper, August 1st to April 30, inclusive.

There can be no changes in the general laws on fishing and hunting before the end of the season of 1902, as the State Legislature does not convene until January, 1903.

No person, resident or non-resident, is permitted by the laws of the State to build a permanent camp on land not his own, and to build a fire on land not his own, or, personally or by his paid employees, for the purpose of cutting timber, law is rarely used by the timberland owners, who are rarely arbitrary unless their property is in danger. Any person building a fire and not putting it out is subject to a fine, and if damage is caused, to suit for damages. The Golden Rule is as serviceable in the Maine woods as it is in the settled portions of the world, and if sportsmen take good care of the land they are on, they will meet with little opposition if any, and no trouble.

Minard's Liniment Has Earned Its Great Title.

It was many years ago that people commenced calling Minard's Liniment the "King of Pain," and so generally has it become known by that name that the manufacturers recently adopted it, and it now appears on every bottle. To give such a broad-meaning title to one's own wares is one thing; to have it given them by the public is quite another. The fact that nearly every family in New England always uses this appellation in speaking of Minard's Liniment shows that it is the universal opinion, where it is best known, that Minard's is really the leader of liniments, worthy the King of Pain. I can truthfully say that Minard's Liniment has the most magical effect in relieving pain in the quickest time of anything I ever saw. I've seen it applied to persons suffering intense pain with inflammatory rheumatism, whose face was distorted with the suffering, and on whom the doctors were using opiates for relief without results; and the minute it touched the skin the pain began to disappear, and in five minutes he was resting in perfect ease. I've seen it applied to burns, great blisters made by hot grease, and it overcame the pain instantly. I've seen it do the same for cuts, lacerations, sprains, and lameness

WEST PARIS.

Millinery Opening.

Mrs. F. S. Farum's millinery opening, last Friday and Saturday, far exceeded expectations. She has never since she went into business here. Her windows were very pretty and tastefully arranged. In one was a boat scene. The boat contained two girls and a boy, represented as just come ashore with the glassy water. They were just leaving behind them and the pebbly beach before them. There was also a flock of ducks off at a little distance near the shore. The other window had the very newest materials and had creations that were a delight to the eye.

The shop inside was prettily decorated with festoons of pink and white crepe paper and baskets of flowers while hanging over the large table of "ready to wear" and untrimmed hats was a baby with its little slip partly off one shoulder and a very sad expression on his face as though he must have been crying because he could not be fixed up and have a new hat too.

Well, altogether, everything was just "all right."

In one was a boat scene. The boat contained two girls and a boy, represented as just come ashore with the glassy water. They were just leaving behind them and the pebbly beach before them. There was also a flock of ducks off at a little distance near the shore. The other window had the very newest materials and had creations that were a delight to the eye.

The shop inside was prettily decorated with festoons of pink and white crepe paper and baskets of flowers while hanging over the large table of "ready to wear" and untrimmed hats was a baby with its little slip partly off one shoulder and a very sad expression on his face as though he must have been crying because he could not be fixed up and have a new hat too.
